DEFECTIVE STOVE-PIPE. - Our attention has been called to a very defective stovepipe in a lodging house on Upper Main street, which is dangerous, and ought to be adjusted properly. Otherwise fre is liable to break out in that quarter at any time, and in that case a large amount of property and perbaps human life would be sacrificed to the indolence and supplicity of the owner of the house. and stapidity of the owner of the house. The pipe which projects above the roof has toppled over, leaving an opening not over six inches above the roof. We hope not to be compelled to refer to this case or any similar case again. So many interests are involved, and the reasons for guarding against fire are so numerous that we will not insult public intelligence by doing more than calling attention to by doing more than calling attention to xisting facts.

RESUMED.—The preliminary examination into the charge of grand larceny, preferred against George Lambert, which was commenced Saturday afternoon before Justice Van Hagen, was resumed last evening, and was still pending when our report closed.

LOCAL.-Items which bring joy to the local reporter are scarce articles in Pioche just now. An era of good feeling has set in, and those who love to sup on hor-rors are left to mourn over the degen-eracy of the times, while all others re-

The "Great Clours of Eternity."—
A Washington lecturer says that the earth's orbit has been widening out for 20,000 years past, and will continue to do so for 20,000 years to come. It will then begin to contract, and will continue to do so for 50,000 years. The eccentricity of mercury has been steadily increasing for the last 100,000 years, but has now nearly attained its limit. In about 5,000 years it will begin to diminish, and will continue to do so for more than 100,000 years. The orbits of the planers must go on oscilating in this manner as long as the laws of nature romain unchanged, forming what a French writer has called "great clocks of eternity, which beat ages as ours beat seconds."

Paddens Annesty.—Congress should put an end to the ridiculous farce of predding pardons to disabled Confederates. In point of injustice no less than absurdity, it has long ceased to be defensible. No man of any brains or character would now stand up in either branch and say a word for the longer continuance of this unmanly and senseless policy towards the South. To illustrate the folly of the present law, take the cases of two men just pardoned by Congress, John H. Reagan, of Texas, ex-Confederate Postmaster General, and Thomas S. Baboock, of Virginia, ex-Speaker of the Confederate Congress. These men were as fierce against the Union as any others during the rebellion, and are not more entitled than any of their comrades to a restoration to civil rights. Yet, when their names are presenrights. Yet, when their names are presented to Congress for amnesty, each one in a bill seperately, nobody thinks of objecting to it, and they are purged of all their disabilities by a two-thirds vote. Both are canddiates for the United States.

See It was a superated to Congress for amnesty, each one in a bill separately.

Following is a list of sales of delinquent stocks now advertised in our paper:

NEVADA CENTRAL RAILWAY

ON AND FIVER MONDAY DECEMBER 1ST, 1873, trains will run as follows until fur-Both are canddistes for the United States Senate; and still no Senator quarreled with the possibility of their entrance into that body. Such being the present liberal view of Congressmen towards the ex-Confederates, why not pass a general amnesty bill and let them all back, and have done with this childishxess? We quote President Grant's sensible language on this point in his late message. "I renew my previous recommendation to Congress for general amnesty. The number engaged in the late rebellion yet laboring under disabilities is very small, but enough to keep a constant irritation. No possible danger can accrue to the Government by reatoring them to eligibility to hold office."—[New York Journal of Commerce. nal of Commerce.

Philosophers who flourished in Germany during the seventeenth century, and prosecuted profound researches into Natural Science and Occuit Philosophy, and sought to discover the ELIXIR OF LIFE. HERBAL PREPARATIONS,

And found dynamic and psychologic force in the extract of certain plants. HOLES EN EN AL MA Is due to the researches of a learned scholar of Europe among the archives of the Rosicrucians. It is made of
